

The Programme's content

- Among the courses offered are
 - theory and methodology of contemporary knowledge in social sciences and the humanities
 - quantitative and qualitative research methods
 - human ethology and evolutionary psychology
 - anthropology of gender and age
 - anthropology of contemporary conflicts
 - anthropology of migration
 - semiotics
 - English for professional purposes
 - project

management, etc.

- In the course of your studies, you will be introduced to some of the best international standards and professional practices in the field of social anthropology and will acquire practical skills and applied research skills.
- You will get a chance to participate in a number of professional and research events, including international ones, organised by the TSU Department of Anthropology and Ethnology and its partners, such as workshops, guest lectures, conferences, fora, summer schools, and field trips.

National Research

Tomsk State University

Our address:

Room 30; 34, Lenin Ave.

Tomsk, 634050 Russia

Tel.: 007 (3822) 52 97 96

Website: lsar.tsu.ru/en

Website: lsar.tsu.ru/en

e-mail: lsar.tsu@gmail.com

Master Programme

Social Anthropology

vk.com/club41768621

facebook.com/groups/LSAR.Tomsk

Social Anthropology

The TSU Master Programme in Social Anthropology is one of the few programmes of higher education in Russia to educate and train social anthropologists. Social Anthropology is a social science that explores the social and cultural diversity of the world and at the same time provides different opportunities for practical work upon graduation (consultancy and analytics services; evaluation of state, international, (non) commercial, social and other types of projects; marketing and sociological research; the mass media, etc.)

Important to know

The Programme was launched in	2015
A qualification to be conferred	Master Degree
A broader field of specialisation	46.04.03 'Anthropology and Ethnology'
Duration	2 years
Mode of study	Full-time
Taught in languages	Russian
Entry requirements	1. To write a personal statement (of about 500 words) 2. To attend an interview (with a focus on the field of social anthropology)
Supporting documents to be submitted	A higher education degree certificate (bachelor, specialist or master degree in social sciences or the humanities)
Number of state-funded places available	10

Director of the Programme

IRAIDA V. NAM

Professor, Doctor of Sciences
(History)

The Programme is developed with the support of Department of Ethnology of Lomonosov Moscow State University and is run by TSU Department of Anthropology and Ethnology of National Research Tomsk State University.

Upon successful completion of the Programme you will:

- Be equipped with both fundamental knowledge and specialised competences in the field of social anthropology
- Be able to apply the latest methods of collecting and analysing qualitative and quantitative data
- Have a good command of English for professional purposes
- Develop critical and lateral thinking skills
- Be prepared to compete in both the Russian and international job market

Career opportunities

The Programme provides you with knowledge and skills that you will be able to apply in a variety of professional contexts, e.g., at federal, regional and local government organisations, at educational and research institutions, in the field of marketing, consultancy and analytics, at museums and other cultural institutions, and at international (non) governmental organisations. There will also be an opportunity for you to proceed to a doctoral degree in 'Ethnography, Ethnology, and Anthropology' (07.00.07), if you choose to. Furthermore, the Master Degree in Social Anthropology will prepare you for continuing your education or research abroad, in fields such as anthropology, sociology, migration studies, borders research, international development, etc.